

Jean-Philippe Assal is a doctor and a medical professor, and was the head of the Department of Therapeutic Education for Chronic Diseases at the University Hospital of Geneva (HUG), and head of a Collaborating Centre of the World Health Organisation (WHO). He is an honorary member of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) and of the European Association for the Study of Diabetes (EASD). He is president of the Foundation for Research and Training in Patient Education in Geneva, Switzerland.

Tiziana Assal taught Italian language and literature at Wellesley College and at Boston University in the USA, and Italian and history of art at Geneva College. Since 2003 she has been the director of artistic activities for the Foundation for Research and Training in Patient Education, in Geneva.

Olivier Horn is a cinematographer, writer and director of award-winning television documentaries (principally for the french TV channels Arte and France 5). Since 2001 he has directed a series of films with Jean-Philippe Assal about medical education and the Theatre of Lived Experience (Théâtre du Vécu).

The Foundation for Research and Training in Patient Education, created in 1992, is composed of doctors who work in collaboration with psychologists, educators, and specialists in artistic expression. Its purpose is the research and development of new methods of accompanying people who are confronted with difficult medical or social situations, to enable them to improve the quality of their life experience.

The Passport of the Senses has been conceived, written and developed by the organisation of the Foundation for Research and Training in Patient Education.

Consult www.education-patient.net